

In the specification:

On page 1, paragraph beginning at line 22, amend as follows:

To address these disadvantages, in recent years, a private branch exchange system is contemplated in which each user of the private branch exchange system is assigned one mobile station for performing wireless communication. It is thus possible to eliminate the time taken for putting an intended user on the ~~line~~ and line and to receive an incoming call even when a user is away from his desk.